Students vote down new recreation fee

When the 411 ballots cast in the recent student recreational sports fee vote were tallied, 276 students had voted "No" to the new fee and 135 had voted "Yes," placing CCSU student opinion 2-1 against the proposed fee.

Students cast their votes in the March 10-11 referendum on the proposed fee. If passed, the recreational sports fee would have added a new fee of $10 per long semester and $5 per short semester.

CCSU students Mark Mueller and Anne Mokry (pictured right) were two voters who marked ballots. "I voted yes," Mokry said, "because the recreational sports fee (would) provide the needed funds for equipment and intramurals in the upcoming years."

The CCSU Student Government had come out against the fee, distributing "Vote No" flyers around campus to express their opposition.

"We were against the fee first because we did not have enough time to debate the issue and get all the facts," states Student Body President Chris Munson. "Secondly, we felt it was not an equitable fee since it would only be going to one part of student services. There are other areas that need funds as well."

Funds generated by the fee would have been restricted to use within the recreational sports department and the intramural program. According to Ann Stein, director of Intramurals, and Ray Trainer, recreational facilities supervisor, such funds would have been used to expand sports programs, extend facility hours and obtain additional equipment.

The current overall recreational sports budget—including salaries, programs and operation/maintenance of facilities—totals $120,000 according to Dr. Eliot Chenuaux, See "Rec fee vote," page 4.

Students vote in the Field House on the proposed recreational sports fee.

For Summer I, Summer II, Fall '92:

Early registration starts April 13

For the first time since on-line registration was introduced at CCSU, the upcoming campaign, April 13-30, will be a three-in-one registration event.

Students can avoid the long-line, closed-class problems of regular and late registration by participating in early registration for the next three sessions: Summer Session I, Summer Session II and Fall of 1992.

Just shy of three weeks long, the early registration process allows students to select and reserve classes for both summer sessions plus the fall semester.

Personalized early registration letters are slated for mailing from the Office of the Registrar on April 1. The letters include each student's registration date and time, any "holds" incurred by students and placed by campus offices, as well as detailed instructions explaining how to take advantage of early registration.

The first step in early registration is to pick up a Class Scheduling Form (CSF) at the Registrar's Office in the Administration Building. CSFs will be available beginning April 8 along with class schedules for Summer 1992 and Fall 1992. The schedules may be picked up in the Administration Building either at the Office of Public Information or Office of Admissions.

The next step is to clear any and all "holds" indicated on the CSF by contacting the appropriate office. "Holds" are printed in the upper right corner of a student's CSF as well as on their registration letter. For example, if a student's CSF shows "Holds: Admission," they should check with the Office of Admissions to determine the nature of the hold and find out how to clear it.

Before completing the CSF, students are encouraged to seek advisement in selecting courses by setting up appointments with faculty members or degree coordinators in their respective colleges.

After selecting classes and filling out the CSFs, students may register in the Faculty Center Conference Room A. (Please note the change in location; early registration is no longer held in the college dean's suites.) Each student's CSF has an individual registration date and time printed in the upper left-hand corner. Students may register on or after the time noted on their CSF, but not before.

Extended hours are being offered during all three weeks of early registration. They are: 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday; 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, and 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Friday, between April 13 and 30. NOTE: the campus will be closed Friday, April 17, for the See "Early registration," page 4.

Contemporary drama closes '91-'92 season

CCSU's University Theatre presents the contemporary drama Extremities opening April 2 at 8 p.m. for an eight performance run in Wilson Studio Theatre.

This searing drama by William Mastrosimone will run April 2-5 and 9-12 with 8 p.m. performances each Thursday through Saturday. Sunday matinees are April 5 and 12 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $4. Call 991-6931 for ticket information and reservations.

Focusing on the violent and tragic societal problems of rape, Extremities probes the breaking point in each of us—the extremity as it were—through which we tumble into violence when pushed hard enough. Susan Sarandon, Farah Fawcett and Lauren Hutton have all starred in this incredibly gripping play about a young woman who is attacked in her own home and how she overcomes the situation.

Linda Gonzales has been cast as Marjorie with Bobby Martinez as Paul, her attacker. Laura Slavinsky portrays Patricia and Judy Ramos is Terry.

Extremities is a student directed and designed production with Eric Pleasant as director. Set design is by Trey Mikolasky with lighting by Jeffrey Oldham. Yolli Balli serves as assistant director for the production. Amy Hernandez is stage manager.

EXTREMITIES

Ruiz to 'talk razzmatazz'

Critically acclaimed poet Judy Ruiz will return to campus this week (March 23-27) talking "razzmatazz." Ruiz appeared as a guest artist at CCSU last year.

A poet and essayist, Ruiz has scheduled a series of creative writing workshops open to students, staff and the public throughout the week. Her campus visit will culminate in a free, public reading of her works on March 27 in Wilson Studio Theatre at 8 p.m.

Talking Razzmatazz is this prolific author's first published book of poetry, and Friday's public reading will no doubt include poems from this 1991 collection. Ruiz has had over two dozen poems published as well as three fiction and two non-fiction works.

While on campus, the author will visit with the CCSU Writer's Club at 1 p.m. Friday (Mar. 27) in the Center for the Arts, Room 222 (CA 222). Ruiz will also be speaking to the American Poetry classes this week, according to Laura Buseman, temporary assistant professor of English. The class sessions will be Tuesday and Thursday (Mar. 24 & 26) at 11 a.m. in CA 222 and on Wednesday (Mar. 25) evening at 7 p.m. in CA 222. Guests are welcome to attend these classes.

Buseman also announces there are some creative writing workshop times still available to CCSU students. Interested individuals should contact Buseman at 994-2619.

Chamber Trio performs Mar. 30

CCSU's Distinguished Visitors in the Arts series concludes the 1991-92 season with a performance by the American Chamber Trio March 30 at 8:15 p.m. The concert in Warren Theatre is free and open to the public.

Acclaimed by critics as sensitive and persuasive artists, the American Chamber Trio has appeared nationally and internationally since 1975. The ensemble features June DeForest on the violin, Daniel Morganstern, cellist, and Eric Larsen on piano. They have given three series of concerts at Carnegie Recital Hall, appeared at Alice Tully Hall in Lincoln Center and performed throughout the United States as well as in Europe, South America and the Far East.

Violinist June DeForest was appointed concertmaster for the Joffrey Ballet and the Canadian Opera shortly after graduation from the Manhattan School of Music. In addition to being a violinist with the Lyric Opera of Chicago and the American Ballet Theatre in New York, DeForest was appointed the Drushal Distinguished Visiting Professor of Music for 1990-91 at The College of Wooster in Ohio.

Daniel Morganstern is currently principal cellist for the Lyric Opera of Chicago and the American Ballet Theatre in New York and has held the same position in the Aspen Festival Orchestra, the Joffrey Ballet and the American National Opera. He first received recognition at the age of sixteen when he was awarded a scholarship by the Juilliard School of Music.

Eric Larsen, acclaimed equally for his solo and chamber music performances, was invited by the USSR to present two recitals at the Moscow conservatory in January, 1991. A graduate of Manhattan School of Music, he is on the North Carolina School of Arts faculty.

Cinema classics continue

CCSU's University Cinema runs the gamut of emotion over the next two weeks with an Italian classic on the horrors of war and a 1950s musical comedy. The screenings are free and open to the public each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Warren Theatre, Center for the Arts.

The horrors of war and the passions and miseries of life in Nazi-occupied Rome are portrayed in Rome: Open City (1945, 103 min.) March 25. A towering achievement of Italian neorealist cinema, the film is based on fact and shot where the events depicted actually took place. Director Rossellini recreates the attempts of the city's inhabitants to regain their freedom in this powerful film.

Rome: Open City, subtitled in English, stars Anna Magnani, Aldo Fabrizi and Marcello Pagliero.

On April 1, cinema enthusiasts can get on The Band Wagon (1953, 111 min.). A washed-up movie idol (Fred Astaire), a prima ballerina (Cyd Charisse) and a busy producer (Jack Buchanan) combine to put on a Broadway show which turns into a pompous musical version of the Faust legend. Complications during rehearsals result in a general swipe at the rampant egos of theatrical people and their machinations. Eventually they get on track and produce a knock-out musical, which includes a spoof of Mickey Spillane novels.

The Band Wagon also stars Oscar Levant, Nanette Fabray, Jack Buchanan and James Mitchell and features highly imaginative choreography by Michael Kidd.

Songs by Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz include By Myself,

M.F.A in creative writing, Ruiz is currently an instructor of English at Southwest Missouri State University. She has received the Best Essay Award from Iowa Woman (1988), Grand Prize in Poetry from the Poetry Center in Orinda, California and the Kenneth Patchen Award in Poetry from the University of Arkansas Press. Her essay "Oranges and Sweet Sister Boy" was included in The Best American Essays 1989.

Reviewers call her works striking and dramatic, innovative and imaginative. "She touches on some very touchy subjects with an authority that can only be admired, not questioned."—George Garrett.

That's Entertainment, You and the Night and the Music, and Dancing in the Dark."

May graduation candidates

The following three hundred fifty-three CCSU students have applied for Spring 1992 Commencement on May 9. This listing will be used to order diplomas, so pending graduates wishing to make changes in the spelling or presentation of their name should contact the Office of the Registrar as soon as possible. If you are not on the list and wish to participate in Commencement, you should also contact the Registrar as soon as possible.

Great Plains Software of Fargo, North Dakota, has made a $15,000 donation in product and services to CCSU, reports Dr. Moustafa Abdelsamad, dean of the College of Business Administration. The donated Networked Accounting Software will provide CCSU accounting and business majors with the latest in technology, stated Paul Cameron, associate professor of accounting.

"Our students will be trained on one of the top-rated accounting software packages used in day-to-day accounting in the corporate world," said Cameron.

Negotiated through Kent H. Turner of The Turner Group, a local provider of business software and networking technologies, the donated software will be available to students in both microcomputer laboratories on campus: MCL 135 and CCH 101.

The donation to CCSU includes: Version 6 Accounting Modules and manuals as required by the CCSU accounting and MBA curriculum, 2 extra sets of manuals, updates for Version 6 as released, installation and local product support, and attendance for two individuals at Great Plains University training seminars.

interim dean of students. The proposed recreational sports fee was estimated to generate around $90,000.

"Right now student service fees fund the recreational program," explained Chenux. "With additional funds from a recreational sports fee available to help build the rec program, it is possible that a portion of these student services fees could have been freed up to be used in other student service areas."

While the proposed fee was not passed by students during the recent referendum, the option may be revisited in the future, according to the Dean of Student's office.
